INTERIOR DESIGNERS OF CANADA
2019 ANNUAL REPORT

About IDC

Founded in 1972, Interior Designers of Canada (IDC) is the national advocacy association for the interior design profession in Canada with a mandate to provide a unified voice to advance and promote the Canadian interior design industry locally, nationally, and internationally.

With this goal in mind, IDC provides valuable and quality professional development opportunities, educates the public about the importance of hiring qualified interior designers and advocates on behalf of members to promote understanding of the interior design profession.

In total, IDC represents more than 5,000 fully qualified interior designers, interns, students, educators, and retired members. IDC members work globally in all areas of design, including corporate/commercial, institutional, retail, hospitality, health care, and residential. In addition, nearly 200 manufacturers and suppliers, who support the work of interior design professionals, are members of IDC.

Message from the President

I am honoured to have had the privilege of serving as your president for the 2018-2019 Board of Management. This has been a year of growth and another year with so many opportunities to connect with one another. We have visited and engaged with design communities across the country and outside our borders. Your response to our call to represent Canada has been outstanding. We continue to listen to your feedback and make needed changes and improvements at IDC.

I have enjoyed hearing from so many of you during our bi-monthly President's Webinars, through which we aim to deliver updates on IDC initiatives, and listen to your concerns and suggestions. Your participation in these communication exchanges is very important to the organization and we hope they have been beneficial to our members. We plan to continue the webinars in the future and hope that many of you will continue to be engaged.

I, along with my colleagues on the board, am inspired by your commitment, whether it is participating in learning opportunities and events, submitting proposals to join peers on trade missions, or sending in projects and success stories to IDC's team for publication – each of these actions only makes our organization thrive.

IDC continues its efforts to advocate for Canadian interior design, providing a platform for meaningful member engagement, by embracing innovation and promoting diversity and inclusion in our profession. Our goals, which can only be achieved with each of you, our members, is to elevate public knowledge and understanding about the Canadian interior design profession and demonstrate IDC values to stakeholders through ethics, transparency and accountability.

We have yet another opportunity to bring so many of you together, from coast-to-coast to IDC's second design symposium, this time in Vancouver. This year we revisit our important theme of design thinking and how it impacts our daily lives. IDC's Board of Management and staff thank you all for your attendance and contribution to the success of the symposium.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the hard work of IDC's small, but mighty team of staff and IDC's Board of Management, a lovely group of incredibly talented designers, business owners, and community leaders, who are passionate about the industry and the future of interior design.

I wish the very best to your incoming president, with many more successes to be celebrated. I look forward to continuing to work with IDC and our members on the many new initiatives to come.

Sincerely,

Sally Mills

President, IDC Board of Management

DESIGN THINKING
EXPLORING HUMAN CONNECTIONS

With so many exciting initiatives and events throughout the country and across the globe, member projects featured on the national stage, and our first symposium that brought it all together, this was a year for celebration for both the organization and our members.

As the organization's CEO, I am grateful to be part of such a warm and engaged community brimming with talent and innovation. All of us at IDC continue to be amazed at the kind of collaboration and mutual respect shared by IDC members across the country.

From the trade missions that provide opportunities for members to explore business ventures across international borders to intimate one-on-one events at cross-country DesignEx events and sales training courses this year brought us together to share ideas and explore new avenues.

This year we are building on the success of our inaugural design symposium and taking a deeper dive into design thinking and the human connections to rapidly changing technology, environment and nature, and sustainability and wellness – and the crucial role of design in shaping a productive, healthy and inclusive society.

I am delighted by the quality of speakers and programs our planning committee has prepared for this year's symposium, but ultimately, I, like many of you, am excited to learn more about design thinking, engage with my peers through workshops and panels, and bring home a wealth of information to keep building for future symposiums.

This event and so many of our events throughout the year, would not be possible without the participation of our members, the support of our sponsors and partners, IDC's many volunteer committees, and our dedicated staff.

IDC is here to help members tell your design stories, to bring awareness of the importance of interior design in our daily lives, and to showcase the positive contributions of interior designers in Canada and across the globe.

I want to thank our volunteer board for their support and dedication to IDC and the tireless efforts that breathe life, inspiration and vibrancy into our organization. A special thanks to our dynamic, resilient, and very professional IDC team that continues to deliver great results for IDC's members across the country.

And finally, I want to acknowledge all our members who continue to show up, to contribute to and support their professional association, in order to help build a better community today and for future generations of interior designers.

Sincerely,

Tony Brenders

Chief Executive Officer, IDC

Message from the CEO

Advocacy Matters

PROMOTING MEMBERS

IDC is a vehicle for member promotion, and this year our communications team received numerous member projects from coast to coast to profile on social media channels, news blogs, and in the bi-weekly newsletter.

As a community, we celebrate the work and innovation of IDC members and our prolific design community throughout the country by showcasing the work of members and telling important stories of design opportunities, challenges and successes.

GLOBAL CONNECTIONS

This year, IDC members were invited to participate in trade missions across the globe from Europe to Southeast Asia. These events provide members the opportunity to explore business ventures and forge new partnerships with interior designers and manufacturers across the globe.

DESIGNEX EVENTS

In 2018-2019 IDC hosted seven DesignEx events throughout the country from St. John's, N.L., to Kelowna, B.C. These events have been successful in connecting designers and manufacturers and suppliers in a light and beautiful atmosphere to network and build business opportunities.

INDUSTRY SALES PROFESSIONALS

IDC offers a custom course, tailored exclusively to meet the needs of architecture and design industry sales professionals. The practical course features Q&A sessions with panels of registered interior designers and architects, drawn from boutique and large design firms serving the retail, commercial, healthcare, hospitality and residential sectors. The formal exchanges offer an opportunity for leading designers to deliver helpful tips on how their studios operate as well as how to join their network of trusted industry resources.

The fall course was held during the design symposium in Toronto in September, the spring course was held in Calgary, Alberta in May, and the summer course took place in Halifax, Nova Scotia in July.

"The opportunity to have the honour to represent Canada and interior designers nation-wide in Leiria, Portugal this November was an experience I will never forget."

- Krista Paine, RID, RSE, NCIDQ

“My attendance at DesignEx Halifax enabled me to network and share my product. I had a great time and look forward to participating at future events.”

- Donald LeBlanc of Wall Decor by Reggie

AWARDS & BURSARIES

IDC offers multiple scholarships and bursaries to interior design professionals in all levels of their career.

Robert Ledingham Scholarship

Awarded annually to one or more candidates to assist Canadian interior designers and educators in their pursuit of higher education.

BYU Design Bursary

Awarded annually to one or more emerging professionals who, for reasons of financial hardship, are unable to join their provincial interior design association as an Intern/Provisional member. The recipient(s) of the bursary remain anonymous.

Wayne Thomson Bursary

Awarded annually to one or more candidates to assist with the cost of the NCIDQ exam.

Design Research Award

Awarded annually to individuals who demonstrate excellence and innovation through interior design research, including projects conducted at the masters or doctorate level and through major research projects by final-year students.

i+D MAGAZINE

In 2017 IDC partnered with the American Society of Interior Designers to create i+D magazine, a North American publication that dives deep into stories that reflect today's changing landscape and innovations in design and shows the significant, positive contributions of interior designers on the future of the built environment. The magazine regularly publishes works of Canadian designers and IDC initiatives and invites members to share their ideas and feedback on innovative topics in the design industry.

IDC members receive six issues annually of i+D magazine, and timely news bulletins and e-blasts, to keep members connected to industry trends, news, and opportunities.

Member benefits at a glance:

- Online access to job opportunities through Career Centre
- Exclusive deals and discounts on insurance rates, auto rentals, and more
- Subscription to North American i+D magazine
- Education seminars and webinars (CEUs)
- Access to industry research and reports
- Advocacy tools to help you succeed
- Annual awards and scholarships
- Access to events and networking
- Weekly industry news and updates
- Promotion on IDC's social media channels

CONTINUOUS LEARNING

Interior designers are required to fulfil professional development requirements in order to remain members in good standing with their provincial association, which is facilitated through the Interior Design Continuing Education Council (IDCEC). IDC offers continuing education opportunities to members across Canada to help members fulfil their continuing education requirements and keep up to date on current industry regulations, business practices, and trends.

IDC pays annual membership dues to IDCEC on behalf of IDC members where the provincial associations have and continue to collect IDC dues on our behalf. Access to the IDCEC system allows members to track and manage earned credits without further cost. Currently, that includes all provincial interior design associations except APDIQ in Quebec and ARIDO in Ontario, PIDIM in Manitoba, and IDNL in Newfoundland and Labrador. Those provincial associations do not collect IDC dues and therefore pay IDCEC on members' behalf. All IDC members continue to have full access to the IDCEC system.

"It is an affirmation that the work we do every day is recognized by our peers. It also demonstrates that our investment in design thinking, including offering services such as generative design research, client facilitation and strategic thinking, can go deeper and result in more fulfilling client engagements."

- Allan Guinan, Principal at Figure3

OUR VISION, MISSION, VALUES AND GOALS

The IDC Strategic Plan, developed in 2015, was updated in early 2019 with engagement from the Board of Management, stakeholders and staff. The revised mission statement builds on the previous version, bringing clarity.

VISION

Healthy and safe interior spaces that enhance the quality of life.

MISSION

To advance, support and promote interior designers and the profession, nationally and internationally.

VALUES

IDC is built on integrity, innovation, sustainability, inclusion and the belief in an ethical, accountable profession and a positive future for members, partners and stakeholders.

STRATEGIC GOALS

- Build the profile of interior design and advance the profession in innovative ways.
- Grow design partnerships.
- Develop a robust membership.

IDC continues to host bimonthly President's Webinars series, which began in November 2017. The webinars are a great way for members to engage with IDC's president and staff and receive timely and important information on topics such as membership renewal, advocacy activities, committees, opportunities and strategic planning for 2019, IDC design symposium developments and information on applications and deadlines for awards, trade missions and event participation.

All webinars are recorded and available to members.

Last year, IDC's first Value of Design Awards (VODA) honoured 11 Canadian design firms from coast to coast. The program was established to shine a spotlight on innovative work that pushes the interior design industry forward. VODA seeks to demonstrate the positive human and business impact of design thinking for the people and companies who hire a professional interior designer.

Board of Management

As an organization, IDC is committed to ensuring that its board represents the interior design industry with respect to varying experience and cultural, age and gender make-up that is representational of the membership and fibre of the Canadian population.

IDC's Board of Management is comprised of elected members from across Canada who have an impact on the challenges affecting the interior design community. The board is governed by a set of by-laws that were enacted in October 2017, in addition to operational policies and procedures.

Last year, the board's management structure changed from an 18-member board made of volunteers and provincial appointees, to 9 elected members from across the country. This change was made to bring IDC into compliance with the Canada Not-for-profit Corporations Act, and to help lower costs of board meetings and allow for more efficient input and decision making. New members will be elected and announced at the annual general meeting, per IDC's nominations policy.

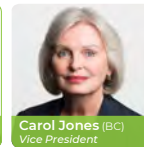

IDC's board continually seeks opportunities for representation of Canada's interior design profession and IDC members on a national and global platform, and this year the board attended a number of international events and trade shows such as the HOMI show in Milan, Italy, which showcases upscale home décor, the Malaysian International Furniture Fair in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and for a taste of the art of Hygge, the Danish design tours in Copenhagen, Denmark.

IDC's trade missions strengthen international relations and build business opportunities as well as broaden the exposure of the professionalism of the Canadian interior designers, around the globe.
