

Amanda Cross

Interior Designer, Kindrachuk Agrey Architecture

Amanda is a long-time member of the Kindrachuk Agrey team with a wealth of the firm's most innovative projects to draw experience from. Amanda has participated in all aspects of interior work from programming and space planning to furniture and equipment fit up and coordination.

Amanda is an approachable designer who leaves ego at the door in favor of listening to address the real needs and vision of the project. Her interior design interests are matched only by her commitment to health and wellness, and Amanda strives to incorporate those values into any project she works on.
